

Trainings ▾

General Information

The function of the coolant system is to maintain a specified operating temperature for the engine. Some of the heat generated by the engine is absorbed by the coolant flowing through the passages in the cylinder block and head. Heat is then removed from the coolant as it flows through the radiator.

